COLOURING YOUR SPECIAL DAY

Your wedding day is unique and making that dream come true can be stressful — something you don't want to be on the big day.

When you've waited this long, make sure the memories last a lifetime. Rainbow Weddings can organise weddings for Same Sex and Straight Couples providing full service for all budgets.

'More than 250 hours go into planning a wedding with loads of early mornings, late nights, phone calls, meetings, discussions, people herding, running around in the humidity or the pouring rain, planning, spreadsheets and more,' says Jane Ward, creator of Rainbow Weddings. 'It's emotionally overwhelming. You need mountains of sanity and energy. By the time their day rolls around most people are too exhausted to truly enjoy it. That's where we can help. Weddings should be fun. We talk with the couple making sure everything that's important to them has been looked after. We guide and plan from start to finish or whatever is needed, taking all the stress away.' Hiring a wedding and event specialist is a personal choice and often governed by budget. Taking your dream wedding and making it into reality is their job. With over 30 years in hospitality and organising construction projects she is across every minute detail, describing herself as anal-retentive and a hard taskmaster, but balanced and organised with a plethora of contacts to make everything come together perfectly. Anything but perfection is just not an option. 'We specialise in finding the perfect vendors that fit a couple's style and budget, aiming to save them money every step of the way. We encourage our clients to be trendsetters and stay true to themselves by incorporating unique personal details and untraditional elements to make their day personal to their love story,' adds Jane. 'Naturally, we'd prefer to be on board from the onset, but we can also step in at the last minute if necessary. We are here to make the event stress-free, memorable, and a huge success!' Rainbow Weddings is a boutique company so you can be assured of that personal touch, from full-service planning packages to only the final details, they have a service that will fit your budget and needs. And they can travel anywhere in the Territory too. 'I love getting to know people, turning them into friends and creating something truly amazing for them,' Jane smiles. 'We put the same amount of passion, creativity, heart and soul into the event — sometimes more. The happiness on everyone's faces at the end is worth every minute of time and every ounce of sweat.'
